FINISH JUDGING ENTRIES IN FAIR THIS AFTERNOON

List of Winners in All Departments to be Available Saturday

BANQUET TO BE HELD

Comment of Fair Officials Brand Event as Most Successful

Judging in all departments of the Pontotoc County Free Fair was completed this afternoon and lists of winners were being prepared for the awarding of prizes, according to statements of fair officials this afternoon.

Entries in the Boys and Girls club departments were being judged early this afternoon with prospect of being completed in about one hour.

Livestock entries were judged yesterday and agriculture exhibits were viewed by judges this morning.

A tabulation of the winners in the various departments was under way for the purpose of announcing the winners before the banquet to blue ribbon winners Saturday noon.

Notice was given today by fair officials to persons who desire to see fair exhibits this year and have not as yet availed themselves of the opportunity, that exhibits would begin leaving the fair buildings Saturday at 1 o'clock and that the fair buildings will not be open Saturday night.

The notice was given in order that business men and workers, who desire to view the exhibits may do so this evening.

Fair is Huge Success

"I consider the fair, the most important one ever held in the county," J. B. Hill, secretary of the county Fair Association, said today. Hill stated that his opinion has been vouched for by everybody who has closely followed the fair this year.

Judges in the various departments praised the volume and quality of exhibits in the Pontotoc county free fair this year, declaring them to be above the average.

The list of winners will probably be available Saturday and in that instance will be published in Sunday's edition of the News.

A feature of the fair is an exhibit of heirloom and curios. Some of the objects are more than a century old and some from the cliff dwellings of pre-historic inhabitants are of untold antiquity.

Oakman won first honors for school exhibits. Other schools represented were High Hill, Pickett, Lightning Ridge, Allen, Vanoss and Latta. Ada schools had an art exhibit.

The school exhibits were the best ever displayed at a county fair. They covered a wide range and proved that the hands as well as the brains of the young people are being well trained.

The poultry exhibit at the wagon yard on East Main consisted of more than 100 chickens and turkeys and covered the most popular breeds of the day. The hog exhibit was also here and the various breeds were all well represented.

The livestock exhibit at the wagon yard on North Constant appeared to be somewhat smaller in number than last year but of high quality.

Baptists Convene In Annual County Meeting at Roff

Over 100 messengers to the Pontotoc County Missionary Baptists Association are in session this week at Roff for the purpose of a general reunion of county Baptists to work out helpful plans for the year.

Rev. C. C. Morris of Ada was elected moderator of the meeting for the third consecutive year; Rev. N. O. Horasby was elected assistant moderator; D. W. Swaffar of Ada elected clerk; and J. J. Copeland of Center named treasurer.

The association convened yesterday at 2 o'clock and will remain in session until Saturday afternoon.

The First Baptist and Oak Avenue churches of Ada were well represented at the opening of the meeting yesterday.

ANOTHER REVOLUTION IN SPAIN FALLS SHORT

(By the Associated Press)
LISBON, Sept. 12.—Another unsuccessful attempt to bring about a revolution has been made by communists with civilians and soldiers involved. Attacks were made on the ministry of war, telegraph station and customs house but failed. The leaders of the movement have been arrested.

Bandits Hold Up Jeweler.
(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Three bandits, one armed, held up Irving Baron, a jeweler, in his Bronx store today, and after forcing him to open his safe, escaped with uncut diamonds, watches and rings valued at $10,000.

BELIEVE CURLEE WILL RECOVER FROM WOUNDS

G. S. Curlee, butcher at Rains Grocery who Wednesday afternoon attempted to take his own life by firing two shots from an automatic pistol through his body, was today apparently on the road to recovery, according to information from the Breco hospital, where his wounds are being treated.

Barring pneumonia symptoms, Curlee stands a two-to-one chance of recovery, according to information from the hospital.

Pneumonia symptoms would likely show up in about seven days after infliction of the wounds, while infection, another possible setback to his recovery, is believed unlikely at this time.

Word from the hospital, indicates that Curlee is in much better spirits at the present time and is looking on life with a brighter outlook. Nurses declare that he is a congenial and optimistic patient.

According to word from the hospital, Curlee has made no further statements concerning the incident that barely spared his life.

PASTORS CONDEMN WALTON'S REMARKS

Ministerial Alliance Opposes Walton After His Remark About Ministers

Replying to the alleged statement of former governor J. C. Walton that "95 percent of the Protestant ministers of Oklahoma are dirty skunks," the Ada Ministerial Alliance today issued a formal resolution condemning the remarks, his record and candidacy for the exalted office of United States senate.

The resolution was passed at a recent meeting of the Alliance and bears the signatures of all but two ministers of Ada churches, one of whom could not be located before publication of the resolution and who was not present at the time the resolution was passed.

Following is the resolution: Whereas, one J. C. Walton, candidate for the office of United States Senator from Oklahoma, is reported to have made statements reflecting on the character and integrity of the Protestant ministers of Oklahoma, therefore he is resolved:

First—That we, the members of the Ada Ministerial Alliance of Ada, Oklahoma, both present and condemn the said J. C. Walton as unworthy the support of the Christian people of this state in his campaign for the exalted office of United States Senator.

Second—That a copy of this resolution be furnished the Ada Daily News, the Ada Weekly News, the Daily Oklahoman, and our respective church papers for publication.

R. E. McCain, President, Ministerial Alliance, and Pastor Nazarene Church.

R. T. Blackburn, Vice-President Ministerial Alliance, and pastor First Methodist church.

C. C. Morris, Secretary Ministerial Alliance and pastor First Baptist Church.

H. W. Wallace, Pastor First Christian church.

C. L. Widney, Rector Episcopal church.

Reports Declare Kiangsu Forces Beaten in Fight

(By the Associated Press)
SHANGHAI, Sept. 12.—Headquarters of the Cheniang troops south of here, announced late this afternoon that two battalions (1,300 men) of the Kiangsu army has surrendered two miles south of Eihing. The troops surrendering comprise the major portions of the forces defending the town, it was said.

A delegation of townspeople was said to have wired to the Chakiang commissioner petitioning him not to use artillery in capturing Eihing, and assuring him that the town was only waiting to welcome the Chekeang army.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 12.—A session of fighting in the flooded fields to the west of here, and a movement of re-enforcements to the fighting front indicates that the warring factions battling for possession of Shanghai, would renew hostilities with greater vigor when the storm was over. These were the overnight developments in the war between rival military governors.

PRINCE OF WALES RUSH WITH HIS CORRESPONDENCE

(By the Associated Press)
SYOSSETT, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The Prince of Wales will be the dinner guest tonight at the home of Mrs. Vincent Astor at Fort Washington. He spent the morning writing letters to catch the English mail ship leaving tomorrow.

It was suggested today by Capt. Lascelles, the prince's secretary, that Wales might leave for his Canadian ranch next Wednesday night. Capt. Lascelles denied that Wales had attended the Firpo-Wills prize fight last night.

CLANK OF DOORS AT JOILET ENDS MURDER HISTORY

Loeb and Leopold Bid World Goodbye Before Enter- in Prison Life

LAST INTERVIEW

Ride to Joilet Furnishes Last Thrill to Two Slay-ers

(By the Associated Press)
JOILET, Ill., Sept. 12.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb today bade the world good bye and started on their life term behind prison bars. After giving what they were told would be their last interview with newspaper men the slayers of young Robert Franks declared that they had been told not to talk but said they were glad of their contact with reporters and that they were glad it was all over and with a smile backed out of the presence of the craft.

RICHARD LOEB

JOILET, Sept. 12.—Nathan F. Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb were routed out at 6:00 o'clock this morning after spending their first night in the state penitentiary to find the institution in holiday spirit.

NATHAN LEOPOLD, JR.

its and themselves the center of interest.

The slayers of young Bobby Franks were expected to take part in a Defense Day program at the prison and to go through some of the formalities of the entering of new prisoners which were discarded last night on account of the late hour of their arrival.

The young sons of Chicago millionaires their identity submerged in two numbers 9,305 and 9,306, were brought here from Chicago in a wild ride that almost resulted in death or serious injury when the black police car swerved from the railroad about 20 miles from Chicago on the unbarriered track of the Chicago-Joilet electric railway for some 50 feet before the machine screeched to a stop at 35 miles per hour could be brought to a halt by the driver, who ran off the road rather than collide with a stalled machine.

The boys on their arrival at the prison after a two hour ride, the last they probably will ever take, were met by two lines of prison guards with drawn rifles, whisked through the entrance almost before the big car had been brought to a halt, and in less than five seconds after their arrival had passed through the iron door guarding the record clerk's cage.

Having forfeited a life of ease in palatial Chicago homes for the routine schedule for all "lifers," the prisoners will soon begin manual labor in one of the prison factories.

CHARLEVIOX, Mich., Sept. 12.—Inmate yet will overtake Nathan Leopold and Loeb and the country will know that Judge J. R. Caverly who sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Robert Franks in the demand for hanging, chief counsel for the defense, declared today. Mr. Darrow after the close of the sensational trial in Chicago came to the summer home of Albert Loeb, father of Richard, here.

"Looking at this place," he added, referring to the great Loeb estate and palatial home, "and say if a sane boy could leave it, it is absurd."

MAN STRENGTH OF ADA CALLED OUT

Threatening Clouds Fail to Dampen Prospects for Defense Day Tests

Threatening rain clouds hovered over the city late this afternoon and before the Defense Day parade was scheduled to wind its way down Main street and up Townsend avenue to the Convention Hall, where a patriotic program was scheduled to be delivered.

While weather conditions may prove a setback to the plans for the local observance of Defense Day, those in charge were preparing for the march and program at the Convention Hall. According to the latest plans for the observance here, Lieut. Col. J. Byron Sledge, ranking guard officer, will be marshal of the day and head the parade down Main street with the 160th P. A. band scheduled to perform. The regular guard companies, swelled to war strength by temporary volunteers were slated to follow behind the guard band with the reserve companies and others bringing up the ranks of the parade.

At the Convention Hall, three minute speeches were to be rendered by A. Linscheid of the College, Congressman Tom D. McCreary and Robert S. Kerr. Several patriotic musical numbers will be rendered in connection with the addresses.

While ranks of several of the skeleton companies to march in the parade had not been filled early this afternoon, those in charge expected a full response and the man strength of Ada in the line of march before reached its destination.

Arrangements Made For Fair Winners Banquet Saturday

All arrangements have been made for the Blue Ribbon Winners-Business Men's luncheon at the First Baptist church, corner of Broadway and Fifteenth street, at noon Saturday.

J. E. Williams, secretary of the Retail Merchants Association, urges every winner of a blue ribbon to be present. The luncheon has been arranged for their benefit, and the merchants will be disappointed if they are not there in full force. The time required will be only about an hour.

A program consisting of a few selections of music and a few short talks will be carried out, but this is only a sideline to the main feature, which will be eating.

GENERAL PERSHING TO BE RETIRED FROM U. S. SERVICE

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—General Pershing will be retired from active service tonight at midnight by an order issued and signed personally by President Coolidge, as commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States.

It is probable that the order will be accompanied by a personal letter from President Coolidge recounting the general's service to the nation. Hundreds of reserve officers, many in uniform for the first time since they have been mustered out of service, took the opportunity to bid farewell to their old commander. In the line was Lieut. Col. W. H. Hays, former postmaster general.

Regrets Search for Thrill

(By the Associated Press)

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., Sept. 12.—Reading wild west stories gave them an inspiration and seeing wild west moving pictures furnished the incentive for Marguerite McMullen and Olga Endurizzi, both 15-year-old girl bandits of Gillespie, who are held here in jail on two highway robbery charges, to start on a search for thrills, the girls related in their cells today.

However their career was short lived, being arrested here Tuesday after holding up two men on the streets of Edwardsville.

And now they repent, they both say. "Ollie more so than Marguerite for she said today she expects the "worst thrill of all when my mother gets hold of me."

BARRETT BRANDS CUT OF STANDARD OIL PRICE

(By the Associated Press)

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 12.—Action of the Standard Oil company of Indiana in reducing the prices of gasoline in its territory from two to three cents per gallon as announced last night was termed "death bed repentance" in a statement issued here today by Attorney General Jess Barrett of Missouri.

The attorney general, who yesterday filed a suit in the Missouri supreme court to oust the Standard Oil company from the state for alleged violations of the anti-trust laws declared the evidence he has makes out suits possible in all of the eleven middle west states in which it operates.

"The Standard Oil company has kept prices high," the attorney general said. "I do not claim the right to fix prices but neither can prices be fixed by the arbitrary decision of the Standard Oil company."

"The Standard prices will have to drop still more to meet prices at which independent and unrestricted gasoline is selling in Missouri. The price is five cents lower now than before I began this oil investigation. There will be still further reduction before I am through."

Associate of Cook Dies in Hospital At Leavenworth

(By the Associated Press)

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Sept. 12.—W. P. Welty, an associate of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, in alleged fraudulent oil stock sales in Texas, died at the federal prison hospital at 4:30 o'clock this morning. Welty was a sufferer from heart disease when brought to the prison December 1, last, to serve a 36 months sentence on conviction of having used the United States mails in a scheme to defraud and had been confined in the prison hospital all the time since here.

Welty was 45 years old and a native of Maryland. Surviving him is his widow, Mrs. E. Berry Welty of Fort Worth, Texas.

Tulsa to Entertain Vets
ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 12.—At the close of a convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars today Tulsa was selected for the 1925 convention. A certified check for $42,000 was received from business men in Tulsa.

FARMER TO CONDUCT B. Y. P. U. SCHOOL HERE

State B. Y. P. U. Secretary T. H. Farmer and wife, of Oklahoma City, will conduct a training school at the First Baptist church beginning Sunday evening at 6:45 and extending through September 20th. Classes in the following books will be conducted: Senior, Intermediate and Junior B. Y. P. U. Manuals, Training in Church Membership and Stewardship and Missions. Rev. C. C. Morris and Mrs. C. C. Morris will assist in teaching these courses and the school is open to everyone. Beginning Monday the classes will meet at the church at 6 p. m. and will last until 8:30. Lunch will be served free of cost to those attending. Mr. and Mrs. Farmer are two of the most efficient teachers in this work obtainable anywhere and everyone should avail themselves of this opportunity to attend this training school.

ADA FANS READY FOR SUNDAY GAME

Green Announces Same Lineup For Sunday Game As Played Thru Season

Ada fandom is preparing to migrate to Oklahoma City Sunday where their champion Independents meet a state all-star baseball aggregation under the readership of Ned Pettigrew.

A twenty-piece band will accompany the Ada team and furnish a share of pep and enthusiasm at the baseball game, which is to be staged at the Western League park in Oklahoma City as a part of the Booster celebration.

A committee of local fans has assured M. M. Harwell, general freight and traffic agent of the A-A and O. C. railroad that 100 tickets will be purchased by Ada fans for the Sunday trip to Oklahoma City. The committee reports that they expect little difficulty in listing a sufficient number of fans for the trip.

Manager A. O. Green of the Ada Independents stated today that he would not alter the lineup of his team which has battled intact throughout the season. His list of stars, several of which have been offered chances with professional teams, has been running through a stiff series of workouts during the week.

Green's nine suffered the first setback after a winning streak of nine games, two weeks ago when the team dropped two games in a series with Wynnewood and Healdton. The Ada team took revenge on the Healdton team last Sunday by winning 7 to 6.

The game with the all-stars at Oklahoma City will mark the near close of the 1924 season. While Green will seek two more games with Oklahoma independent clubs following the Sunday game, he considers his season practically at a close.

Following is the lineup to be used by Green in the Sunday game at Oklahoma City:

R. Waner, ss; Young, 3b; L. Waner, cf; Page, rf; Johnson-Thompson, lf; Fain, 2b; Rutledge, 1b; Lee, c; Formby, p; Kally, Har- gis, Carson.

Jackie Coogan Hits High Spots on Landing in France

(By the Associated Press)

CHERBOURG, France, Sept. 12.—Jackie Coogan, diminutive motion picture star, held a levee of his own for the newspaper men when the Levianth arrived here today from New York. So marked movie actor for reporters that a number of notables of the Levianth passenger list were allowed to leave for Paris without being subjected to journalistic pressure.

Jackie recounted that he had not been seasick on the voyage and that his feet had been between the captain of the ship and Warren Pershing, son of General Pershing, at the table.

EXPRESS TRAIN CRASHES INTO DERAILLED FREIGHT

(By the Associated Press)

ELKTON, Md., Sept. 12.—A Washington-New York express train on the Pennsylvania railroad today crashed into the wreckage of a derailed freight train south of here. No one was injured.

The accident occurred before the freight crew could post a flagman to warn the approaching train of the derailment.

(By the Associated Press)

Germantown, Cricket Club, Sept. 12.—Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, California, today won the girl's national tennis championship, defeating Alice Francis, Orange, New Jersey, in the final round, 6-2; 6-1. The match was played at the Germantown Cricket Club in connection with the Davis cup contest.

DEFENSE DAY IN COUNTRY ENLISTS PRIDE OF NATION

City and Hamlet Alike Lay Aside Business to Shoulder Arms

CAPITAL IN RANKS

Oklahoma Towns Slated to Arouse War Strength For Observance

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The nation's defense machinery was given its first test today accompanied by patriotic demonstrations in every part of the United States.

It was a limited test of the actual expansion plan of the war department being designed to cover a period of months, but dealing only with the question of personnel with that of supply, equipment, housing and training in progressive stages consolidated into this one day.

It is the program called for by the trial of the decentralized defense machinery set up since the national defense act of 1920 was substituted for the pre-war system.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—"Defense Day" was ushered in today in the Middle West by parades and reviews in which hundreds of thousands of national guardsmen participated and by patriotic rallies, parades and mass meetings where public speakers emphasized national patriotism. Half-holidays were declared in a number of cities and thousands joined in the demonstrations. The major demonstrations, however, are scheduled for the evening in most localities.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 12.—Under threatening skies 25,000 persons assembled here this morning in a parade featuring the observance of Defense Day in Oklahoma's Capital. Throughout the state came reports of the observance in virtually every hamlet in the state.

A chill wind whipped through the streets and dense clouds threatened rain, but undaunted men, women and children waited to "fall in" at the bugles' first blast. Virtually every patriotic, civic and business organization here will be represented in the parade.

All morning young women sought men between 18 and 45 years of age—military service age—to sign registration cards pledging that they "would join up" in case the United went to war. Tags attached to the coats indicated the registrants.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 12.—With scarcely a ripple of dissension Oklahoma mobilized its potential man-power for a few hours today in observance of National Defense Day, and the organizations of past wars, paraded in virtually every city and town in the state.

Organizations which took part in the parades throughout the state were the National Guard units, the American Legion, war mothers and gold star mothers, Grand Army of the Republic, Womens' Relief Corps, Confederate Veterans, Sons and Daughters of the Confederacy, Spanish War Veterans, Womens' American Legion Auxiliary, Boy Scouts, Red Cross, and the Salvation Army.

Not an official objection to National Defense Day was received by Adj. Gen. Markham in charge of the National Guard mobilization in Oklahoma.

Enid was scheduled to hold one of the largest patriotic demonstrations in the state. While Tulsa's was one of the largest parades in the state. Fifteen thousand persons had a part in the program and parade in Oklahoma City, and 10,000 more watched from the side lines.

Thousands of men between the ages of 18 and 45 years, signed during the state holiday proclaimed by Governor Trapp, as being willing to serve the nation in time of need. Signing of the registration blanks has nothing to do with compulsory military service in the future, but is an expression of the willingness of men in the state to serve their country in time of stress. The names and addresses of many others, who did not care to sign, were taken in the larger cities of Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 12.—Oklahoma's man-power in time of need will be thoroughly demonstrated by the observance of National Defense Day in the state, today, according to reports reaching Adj. Gen. B. H. Markham and Col. R. A. Sneed, state chairman for Defense Day.

Not an official objection to mobilizing the National Guard units has been received by General Markham, and 99 per cent of the cities and towns of Oklahoma will hold patriotic programs, Friday, according to Colonel Sneed.

A crowd of 25,000 marchers and spectators will participate in the two-hour holiday when Oklahoma

India ink is made from burnt camphor. The Chinese hold the secret of the process and will not reveal it, for next year will be disposed of.

Eczema

At last a good night's sleep!

Oh! The joy of a peaceful, restful night. What a wonderful "up and going" feeling follows such a night of undisturbed slumber.

Oh! What tortures—what agony—what despair—goes with the nights where eczema and other skin diseases hold power and drive away rest and peaceful slumber. For under the cover of darkness like crafty beings of the underworld these eruptions work their most serious havoc.

S.S.S. is the established conqueror of these annoying skin diseases. S.S.S. drives these ever disturbing elements from your system—elements that carry in their wake—lack of energy—undermining health! You may try in vain to get rid of them by using salves, lotions, washes, all to no purpose. You can't do it that way—the seat of the trouble lies deeper—impure blood trying to throw off poisons through the tender skin.

S.S.S. purifies the blood. It aids Nature in creating new red-blood-cells by the million! Blood-cells that send new rich blood coursing through your system. Red blood that drives away eczema—drives away pimples, blackheads, boils and rheumatism, too. An increase in red-blood-cells means added strength, added vitality and renewed vigor. Because the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. Start taking S.S.S. today and watch it rout that annoying, skin destroying, health undermining army that holds your system in its grasp! Learn again what it means to enjoy peaceful, restful nights of slumber.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Why Artist's Cartoons Lost Their Effect

By FRANK COBB

PUNSTERS had called Brainerd the brains of the campaign against Saul Jones, the boss of Lawrence town. His cartoons created a nationwide sensation, and did much to turn the tide of public opinion against the man who had long been supreme in the city. The one which made the sensation of the week depicted Jones in convict garb, ascending the wall of a building marked "Public Efficiency."

And Jones won the election. Four weeks before it occurred Brainerd seemed to lose his grip. True, he drew cartoons as of yore; but they were mild and milk-like in comparison with his vitriolic contributions to the Eagle during preceding issues.

The word went round that Brainerd had been "fixed." He lost his post, of course, and no other newspaper would employ him.

I happen to know what occurred, because Brainerd told me when he came to ask a loan of $200 to take him to New York.

Brainerd was heart and soul in his work. He was all for reform and good government. He went home to sleep, after planning a new cartoon that would pulverize all that remained of Jones.

He got a telephone message in the morning.

"This is Saul Jones, Mr. Brainerd," said the voice. "I want to see you very much. Can you come to my house before going on to your office?"

Brainerd was surprised at the quiet, ladylike woman who came in as he waited in the library and announced herself as Mrs. Jones.

"My husband will be down in a minute," she said. "I know who you are, Mr. Brainerd, and you can't expect me to tell very kindly toward you."

With that she flounced out of the room, if such an expression can be applied to the angry scowl of an angry woman's gown.

Hiding behind a woman's skirt," he said to himself. "Won't I trounce him tomorrow?"

Then Jones came in at the door. Brainerd had seen the boss at a distance.

"You are Mr. Brainerd?" inquired the boss. "Sit down. I have asked you to come here with reference to your cartoon in yesterday's Eagle."

"Yes," answered Brainerd, thinking that his fun was just going to begin.

"How much?" inquired Saul Jones, sinking into a chair and resting his chin on one hand.

Brainerd rose up. "I was expecting that question, Mr. Jones," he answered. "I take it that you are offering me a sum of money to cease cartooning you. Let me tell you that I am not to be bought, sir, for all the money in Lawrence town."

As Brainerd was going toward the door the boss sprang from his chair and caught him by the arm.

"I'm not asking you to stop attacking me," he said harshly.

"Ah, you young men!" he resumed. "It is so easy to crush your enemy, isn't it? But when you have lived as long as I have you will have come to see that magnanimity pays."

"You saw my wife? I sent her in to you, so that you should be able to judge. She knows nothing about it. She thinks I am the best man in the world. And it is thirty years ago—my God! I didn't think anybody would have found that out against me."

"I was a young fellow of twenty-two. It was my first and only crime. I put my employer's name on a check. They gave me six months in state's prison for it. And I escaped—like a fool. I escaped, wearing the stripes, too, and I had only three months to serve."

Jones had connected the cartoon with the secret in his past life, and he read in it a threat of exposure which Brainerd had never meant, and for a crime of which the artist had been entirely ignorant.

"Well?" asked the boss, raising his head. Are you going to break up my home and ruin my life, young man, to gratify your hate; or are you going to let bygones be bygones and take $5,000?"

That was where Brainerd did the right thing. If he had told Jones that he had not known about that episode, he would have left the man crushed and humiliated by his folly in betraying it. He stretched his hand out and grasped the boss'.

"Mr. Jones," he said, "I was a young fool and you have taught me a much-needed lesson. There is no question of money—and the 'Eagle' will never again publish a cartoon like the 'Convict.'"

He kept his word.

"You see," Brainerd explained to me afterward, "I was really quite capable of doing such a thing with deliberate design, if I had known. But nobody knew, and the man had been the victim of his own conscience. And after I had seen him in his home, and learned that all men are made more or less out of the same clay—why, the thing came home to me. And somehow I could never put my heart into my work again. The managing editor thought I had been 'fixed.' So do the public. I guess. I'm going to New York—and I say, I want you to let me have a couple of hundred to keep things going till I get started."

Mac Marsh is at home after several months in Germany, where she was starved in "Arabella," the story of a wagon circus.

Republican Candidate Sets Out Danger in Progressive Campaign

(By the Associated Press)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 11.—The LaFollette independent candidacy was attacked here in its recognized stronghold tonight by Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice presidential nominee, as "the quintessence of demagogism, animated by the vicious purpose of undermining the constitutional foundation of this republic."

Speaking in the Milwaukee auditorium, Mr. Dawes declared that "in the mass of clap-trap accompanying the LaFollette effort we can see one steady purpose always in mind—the attack on the Constitution of the United States," and it was to this "attack" that Mr. Dawes devoted most of his attention.

The Republican nominee described Senator LaFollette as "the master demagogue," warned against any party attempting to take a position in the half-way ground between "those who favor the Constitution of the United States and those who would destroy its essential parts," declared this division to be the greatest issue of the campaign, and appealed to the voters of Wisconsin to decide the issue "by a full vote of the registered voters, not by the fractional vote which, for the last four years, has been cast in Wisconsin."

Mr. Dawes said he recognized that there were in the country "many men who are justly discontented but who are patriotic at heart."

"They may be opposed to certain things in the existing order," but they are not opposed to the existing order of things," he added. "I warn them that they should not be deceived by the catch-all phrases of this master demagogue, endeavoring to amalgamate them with the socialists, flying the red flag, in an attack on the Constitution of their country."

The Republican candidate combined with his attack on the attitude of the LaFollette movement toward the Constitution an assault on the statements made by Senator LaFollette in his Labor Day address.

"In its strong appeal to the prejudices and passions of the people, the speech was usual, but in no other way," he asserted. "Never in the history of the United States, has the common sense of the average individual received a greater affront. LaFollette's speech should raise the question in the minds of the American people: 'Does he consider us a race of fools?'"

Mr. Dawes in beginning his discussion of the LaFollette movement, which he characterized as "the culmination of the most dangerous era of demagogism through which this country has ever passed," quoted the declaration in the LaFollette platform for a constitutional amendment providing that Congress might by enacting a statute make it effective over a judicial veto.

"This proposition," he asserted, "is to abrogate the principle of three-fold division of power—executive, legislative and judicial—which is the basis of our constitution, and make the executive and judicial power subordinate to the legislative power. It means that for our present form of government, we are to adopt another in which Congress will predominate. The success of such a doctrine, which would mean that the Constitution would be stripped of authority, would be disastrous, and government would become the plaything of political parties, with demagogues in the saddle."

The effect on the individual, Mr. Dawes told his audience, would be to place his bill of inalienable rights, evolved through centuries of struggle and conflict, "at the mercy of Congress" and subject these rights to the threats of "mob action."

"The courts of the United States," he continued, "are the guardians of the inalienable rights of individuals including the freedom of the press, the rights of property and religious tolerance. They interpret laws passed by Congress in their relation to those rights upheld by the constitution. What kind of a government would this be if Congress had the right to pass a law taking property from one man and handing it to another, directing a man where he shall go to church, and undertaking to encroach upon the individual rights recognized by all civilization?"

The present constitutional government of the United States, Mr. Dawes said, provided in its system of checks and balances sufficient safeguard "to render certain that only the ultimate right and sound judgment of the people crystallizes into law."

"The government whose policy is determined by the ultimate judgment of the people will permanently survive," he added. "The government whose actions are determined by the passing phrases of popular opinion, as distinguished from ultimate opinion, will perish. Constitution of the United States establishes the rule of the people as distinguished from the rule of the mob."

Such doctrine could not be classed as reactionary, Mr. Dawes said, adding that all good citizens should condemn the reactionary as usually pictured—"one who stands against honest progress in government and in favor of some status quo from which he is supposed to derive an unfair individual benefit."

"The most dangerous reactionary is the man attacking the Constitution of the United States," he said. "Such a man would open the way for a condition of things under which again, in poverty, confusion and misery, the people must evolve among themselves, constitutional instruments of stable and free government, under which the inalienable rights of the individual are protected from the aggressions of the majority and from government itself. Let us not deceive ourselves! The doctrines of the Socialists of the United States, headed in this campaign by Robert M. LaFollette, are the reactionary doctrines."

Turkey Faces Problem Settling Countrymen Returned by Greece

CONSTANTINOPLE—Turkey has a hard problem on its hands in the 350,000 Turks sent back to Turkey from Grecian territory in exchange for the 2,500,000 Greek subjects ejected from Asia Minor.

There is a lack of funds to indemnify the Turks who came back home and no money to erect houses and put them back on the land in Anatolia.

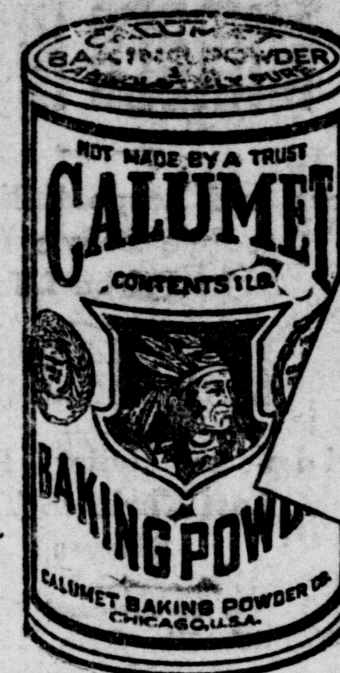

"Turkey for the Turks" still continues to be the slogan of Nationalist politicians. Anatolia has been torn by war for so many years that it offers poor return to Turks who had been more fortunately located in Macedonia and other parts of Greece.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE RIGHTEOUS shall inherit the land, and dwell therein for ever. The law of his God is in his heart; none of his steps shall slide.—Psalm 37:29, 31.

The heavy enrollment of state schools and church colleges in Oklahoma indicates that there was never a time when the thirst for knowledge was so keen. Thousands are now pursuing their studies in the higher institutions of learning and still other thousands are hard at work in the high schools. Of course the attendance does not mean that the younger people alone are interested. It shows that their parents, many of whom were denied the advantages of a good education, are keenly alive to the situation. In the majority of cases where the parents bear the expenses of higher education for their children it means considerable sacrifice, sometimes grinding economy, but they are glad to undergo this privation if only their children can receive a good education. In other cases it means some discomfort for the time being for the boys and girls who are working their way. However, it is good training for future life with them so one need not feel so deeply for them as for the parents who are staking everything on the education of their children.

Some of the papers are carrying cuts of President Coolidge pitching hay on the old Vermont farm. However, that is a step or two behind the candidate for governor of Oklahoma some years ago who had a moving picture made of himself performing all sorts of farm work and which he exhibited in his campaign to show what a good farmer he was. It might be interesting to remember that he was the fourth man in the race. Perhaps to real farmers his motions were too much on the counterfeit order. Perhaps the still views of Coolidge will not betray him.

Canadian postal authorities are now combing the country for a smooth tongued girl who fleeced Canadians and Americans out of hundreds of thousands of dollars by selling stock in a concern that was to make everybody rich by smuggling liquor from Canada into the United States. The suckers bit fast and furiously for a time and then the lady vamoosed with all the cash. That is one swindle where the victims will not get much sympathy and about which most of them will keep quiet.

"Know your county," says the Ardmoreite in urging its readers to attend the Carter county fair. Sound advice for Pontotoc county citizens as well. Few have an adequate idea of what this county contains or of its possibilities. With good attendance this year others will be encouraged to bring in exhibits next time. Exhibitors like to know their efforts are appreciated.

It is announced that the world fliers have changed their route from Washington to the Pacific coast and will come down through Oklahoma via Muskogee to Dallas. No doubt those men wanted to see the best part of the United States when they chose this route. If they had only heard of Ada no doubt they would have included this place in their route.

A newly married couple in New York sitting down to their first meal of chicken agreed to pull the wish bone to settle the question of who was the boss of the place. The man won and then of course trouble began when he tried to be boss. His wife finally got a divorce from him. If that fellow had been any sort of diplomat he would have seen to it that the lady won.

A Kansas banker, so it is told, blistered his fingers the other day in running up farmers wheat checks on his adding machine. We have a number of bankers in Oklahoma who would gladly blister all eight fingers and both thumbs in running up cotton checks.

According to the Insurance Press, $36,000 was paid to holders of life insurance policies in Ada last year. That money saved more than one family from want and represented commendable forethought on the part of those who took this means of providing for their loved ones after they were gone.

Some of the newspapers and magazines are conducting straw votes on the presidential race. In Pontotoc county the only question would be how big the majority for Davis and Bryan would be.

With Loeb and Leopold safely behind the walls of the penitentiary and the Wills-Firpo fight over, the country can now center its attention on the world series and after that the national and state elections.

More than 300 individual exhibitors have displays at the county fair. They have provided a fine show and everyone should see it.

The Constitution

(Norman Transcript)
The week of September 14 is to be known as Constitution week, and churches, schools and lodges are requested to provide exercises appropriate to the occasion.

The setting aside of days and weeks for special causes has been overdone and very properly there is a growing impatience with these celebrations; there are too many of them. But Constitution Week will meet with the general approval.

The constitution is the fundamental law of the land; it is the statement of the great principles that underlie all our laws, traditions and history. In the truest sense it is the palladium of our rights and privileges. Without it all American history becomes unintelligible.

When promulgated it was an epoch-making document, and its appearance announced the opening of a new era. It is the embodiment of liberty, justice and fraternity.

Every citizen should understand its principles, be informed concerning its provisions, know something of the history of constitutional government, and imbibe its liberal spirit. Intelligent citizenship is impossible without an understanding of this significant document.

An earnest revival of interest in its teachings would bring a rebirth of patriotism. American ideals are sure insofar as the people lovingly abide by the doctrines of democracy inscribed in the constitution.

MUSICAL BROADCASTERS DEFIES PRISON BARS

(By the Associated Press)

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 12.—Many people regard a prison as the last place in which to achieve fame, but the case of Harry Snodgrass, convict in the Missouri state penitentiary here, is an exception. For Harry, although serving a term behind the stone walls of the state prison, has not only achieved renown, but he has acquired nationwide fame, as well—chiefly due to radio. More than two years ago he was sentenced to serve three years on a charge of attempted robbery. He entered prison virtually unknown, but today his name is familiar to persons in almost every section of the country.

Harry brought a gift of his fingers with him. He is a pianist of rare ability and can play with extraordinary skill and technique, several masters have declared. Soon he was playing once a week or more at station WOS, the state radio-casting station, one of the most powerful write asking who the "wonderful" in the country. People began to pianist was. His name became known, and now Snodgrass' renditions both of popular and classical music are given to a wide radio audience.

What Harry will do when he gains his liberty is not known, but he can have his pick of a score of good positions playing the piano in several sections of the country, according to prison officials.

PRAGUE—Czechoslovakia has had a bumper crop of cherries. The fruit has been for sale on every street corner of Prague, and at very low prices. The streets became so littered with cherry pits that there was complaint, and the police installed receptacles.

Sun Yat-Sen Party Again Declares Pro-Foreign Text

CANTON, China.—The Kuomintang the party of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, president of the south China republic, took advantage of the recent strike of house boys at Shamen, the foreign settlement ofanton, to reiterate the party's pro-foreign policy. In a statement given out by Dr. C. C. Wu, son of the late Wu Ting-fang, one time minister to Washington, the Kuomintang refuses to entertain an alleged proposal of certain Shanghai members of the party to rescind the party's orders refraining from anti-foreignism.

A new and stronger order was in fact issued. This reads: "It is the duty of this party to make China a really independent and sovereign state on the basis of the party's three principles. It regards all narrow and violent anti-foreign sentiments as harmful to society and the world at large, and detrimental to the complete independence and equality of the Chinese state and race. For this reason the party has always strongly exerted itself in suppressing such tendencies." The pronouncement asserts that even during the Boxer uprising in 1900, when the Manchus were encouraging the Boxers in their "insane movement to destroy the foreigner" the Kuomintang which had started a revolution at Waichow, accorded protection to foreign life and property. Since then the revolutionaries, whenever they took up arms, never failed to take special care to give adequate protection to foreigners.

The northern militarists on the other hand, Dr. Wu's statement continues, "having usurped the Peking government, have not hesitated to work in league with the imperialistic powers, and to sell the country in order to further their selfish aims. Our people have often denounced their slavishness towards foreign powers, but the minds of the militarists and reactionaries are really suffused with medieval and monarchial notions and superstitions which are closely associated with anti-foreign sentiments. While in their conduct they are servile, in their mentality they are really hostile to foreigners."

OLD TIME GHOST EVICTS FAMILY OF UNBELIEVERS

CHICHESTER, Sussex, England.—"The strange lady" is the name of a ghost which constantly evicts tenants from a charming old country house not far from this city. Families come and families go. Sometimes they stay for several weeks; sometimes they remain only for a few days.

One modern, up-to-date woman who leased the house pool-poohed the idea that it was haunted and carefully kept all ghost stories away from her three young children. Within a few weeks the children complained to their mother that they did not like to play in their nursery because "the lady" disturbed them.

Finally the up-to-date and skeptical mother also saw the strange woman. She was unwilling to admit it at first, but a boy and girl of 16 and 17 respectively, who were visiting her, complained that they also had seen her.

The female ghost has been seen by so many persons, or at least so many persons have imagined they saw it, that it has become well-known to ghost specialists in all parts of England. The legend told in explanation of the apparition is that the house was owned by a cavalier who during the Civil War took refuge in a secret chamber. His wife denied to the Roundheads that he was in the building. They set fire to the house and the husband was suffocated. His wife lost her reason through the shock, and her spirit is supposed to haunt the building in spite of the fact that it has been rebuilt and little remains of the old mansion.

Consuls in Europe Active Against Passport Swindles

PARIS.—Since the new American immigration law went into effect, Europe has seen an outbreak of attempted passport frauds. So great has been the desire to reach the shores of the United States, on the part of would-be emigrants, that they are easy prey for unscrupulous traffickers in false documents. American consular officers are engaged in running down frauds in Warsaw, Berlin, Hamburg, Brussels and Paris.

A favorite but futile device among Italians has been the "Argentine dodge." The quota from this country, into America, is far from being exhausted. Armed with a faked Argentine passport, and a faked birth certificate, purchased from swindlers at a cost of $250, many an Italian has seen his hopes fade rapidly under the expert scrutiny of American consular officers.

Eagle's Nest Still Wires
ELKO, Nev., Sept. 11.—An eagle's nest abridging two transcontinental telephone wires was found recently by "trouble men" of the Bell Telephone company to have been the cause for the lines not working across the desert stretch, 70 miles east of here. The nest contained sage brush, survey stakes and numerous metallic substances, including automobile parts apparently lost from the machines of tourists. The pieces of metal caused a short circuit.

Deadhead Students to Be Ousted.
(By the Associated Press)
GOETTINGEN—Officials of Goettingen University recently announced that they intend to clear the rolls of "deadheads." It was said that the tuition fees of 900 have been overdue since the beginning of the summer term.

City will observe National Defense Day, from 12 o'clock noon to 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, according to Walter Dean, chairman of the parade.

Oklahoma City will organize every unit connected with national defense in the present and past. Seven bands will take part in the parade. They are the National Guard Medical Corps band, the Firemen's band, Shrine band, and Shrine drum corps, Knights of Pythias, Emery's Concert band, and the Capitol Hill band.

Oklahoma City's National guard alone, with the men who enlisted for the day, will total 2600, not counting the reserves, and guard units over the entire state will be at war-time strength, according to General Markham. The hours for parade extend throughout the afternoon with Tulsa's 7 o'clock parade the latest schedule in the evening.

Women Units Organize.
Womens' war-time organizations such as the gold star mothers and the overseas nurses are being recruited for the parade here, which will include the Grand Army of the Republic, Womens' Relief Corps, Confederate Veterans, Sons of Confederate Veterans, Daughters of the Confederacy, Spanish War Veterans, American Legion, Womens' Legion Auxiliary, National Guard unit, Medical corps division of the National Guard, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Boy Scouts and Knights of Columbus.

The parade will start at 1:30 o'clock and is expected to be the largest in the state, although Enid plans an extensive celebration. There are approximately 2200 National guardsmen in Oklahoma City including the Central high school unit, according to Dean.

Speakers for Oklahoma City are Governor Trapp, Mayor Cargill, J. S. Ross and Ed Vaught, attorneys, and two more will be selected. The ministers who will lead the prayer services are Lincoln McConnell, Charles DeBow, Monsignor A. F. Monnet, Rabbi Joseph Blatt, Rev. M. C. Mobley and Rev. W. Clyde Howard.

Virtually the same program as the mobilization of the National Guard units, the parades, patriotic speeches, and prayers will be observed in all cities and town of Oklahoma, when the nation's man-power is tested out, Friday, Colonel Sneed, declared.

Home for Homeless Sheltered Prince Reared in Palaces

(By the Associated Press)

BUDAPEST.—Among the dwellers in an old military barrack turned over to the homeless in this city, is Prince Abdul-Kadir, a son of the late Abdul Hamid, deposed sultan of Turkey.

The prince is about 46 years old. He occupies four rooms with his wife, two sons, his mother-in-law and his secretary. His former numerous retinue now has shrunk to a negro servant, a maid and a cook.

Abdul-Kadir is pressing his suit against the Turkish government for the recovery of his share of the Abdul Hamid wealth, which was sequestrated by the young Turks when the sultan was deposed.

The favorite amusement of Abdul Hamid's son is playing the violin, at which he has been practicing since he was six years old. Those who have heard him perform assert that he plays well.

In his younger days Abdul-adir obtained a diploma as a mechanical engineer. He is trying to obtain employment in his profession with a Budapest manufacturer.

More Than Hundred Schools Use Trucks To Haul Free Books

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 12.—More than 100 cities of Oklahoma have used trucks to haul school books from the two depositories in Oklahoma City to their home counties, according to M. A. Nash, state superintendent of education.

There will be more than 100 carloads of new text books to be distributed in the state, and with two depositories here working both night and day shifts, it will require another month to get the material to the school children, as four carloads a day is the most that can be shipped under present conditions, according to Nash.

Eufaula, McIntosh county, which received four truck loads of books from Oklahoma City, is the most distant county to obtain school supplies in that manner. Weleetka, has hauled two truck loads from the depositories here.

The same company has the rig about completed on the McCurry farm in section 16-4-6 and expects to spud in the first of the week.

Rotary tools will be used in section 16 while cable tools will be used in section 3.

Powerful Message Delivered at Hands Of Evangelists Here

The message was powerful last night. Amos 4-12 was the text and it was compared with the warning that God is still giving the old wicked today. Amos warned the people two years before God sent the earthquake. The old world is being touched here and there by the finger of God, famines, earthquakes and pestilence are on us, but the world is too pleasure mad to see it. Old fashion Bible repentance and regeneration is the thing needed everywhere. People are too busy to go to church but soon all will have plenty of time to die. Great interest is manifested and souls are being saved every service now.

Subject tonight will be of deep interest. All are invited.

SECOND ATTEMPT MADE TO LOOT FASHION SHOP

An attempt to rob the Fashion in the wee hours of the night, failed when the back windows were opened but iron bars prevented an entrance, according to the management. This is the second attempt to rob the store, the other being more successful. Mrs. C. D. Price was called last night at her home by night watchman and a search was made for suspicious characters, but only a trace was found. Other than the opened window, as evidence of some treasure seekers was a ladder placed at the window of the Convention Hall dressing room window.

FALL STYLE SHOW PROVES SUCCESS

Program Rendered as Latest Of Dame Fashion's Creation Are Shown

The fall style show held Thursday evening at the Memorial Hall, by The Fashion drew a full house, even the balcony being filled to overflowing.

A program consisting of a male quartette selections, dances, readings, orchestra music, vocal solo selections, and other features was rendered. The male quartet consisted of Oscar Parker, Harvey Faust, Burgess Steed, and Lowell Turner.

Miss Duble Lee Dean entertained with interpretive dancing. Miss Lucille Webster and Miss Lucille Meaders gave reading selections. Schreiders Orchestra furnished the orchestra music.

Miss Edna Rockefeller sang, Eugene Ford gave a clarinet solo, with his sister, Miss Juanita, at the piano. Miss Rockefeller's singing was one of the features of the program.

The models were Mrs. Homer Phelps, Mrs. Fleet Cooper of Ardmore, Miss Rose Stapleton of Oklahoma City, Miss Carrie Louise Harris, Miss Hazel Chadd, Miss Fannie Henderson, Mrs. Minnie White, Mrs. Lucille Banks, Mrs. Claude Cox and Miss Edna Rockefeller.

The dresses and gowns displayed were lavish and of the latest creations. The millinery was the latest thing in the line, and the footwear was most charming.

The whole entertainment was pronounced a credit to the city as well as to the store.

Mrs. C. D. Price and J. M. Burdick are the proprietors of The Fashion. The millinery displayed was from the Fashion Hat Shop, owned and managed by Mrs. Minnie White.

Not So Bad

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 11.—It is within the power of the governor of Illinois to pardon Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold Jr., convicted kidnapers and murderers of Robert Franks, according to a statement made in the executive office of Governor Len Small Thursday.

"The law permits the governor to pardon prisoners and he would be legally permitted to pardon Leopold and Loeb," George D. Sutton, secretary to the governor said.

Sutton was emphatic in declaring that the matter was not in any way under consideration.

Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

By Jackson Gregory

Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons

He didn't get her name out. Perhaps he hadn't expected to. His eyes had been watchful. Now, as he threw himself to one side, he whipped out his gun, dropping to one knee, his body partly concealed by the table. At the same second Bud Lee's right hand, no longer lax, sped to the revolver gripped under the coat at his left armpit.

It was a situation by no means new to the four walls of the jailbird nor to the men concerned. It was a two-man fight, with as yet no call for the four friends of Quinnion to interfere. It would take the spit and snarl of a revolver, the flash of flame, the acrid smell of burning powder to switch their sympathetic watching into actual participation. No new situation certainly for Chris Quinnion who took quick stock of the table with its heavy top and screened his body with it. No new situation for Steve, the big bartender who was at the shuttered door almost as Bud Lee sent it rocking drunkenly.

Since a fight like this in a small room may end in three seconds and yet remain a fight for men to talk of at street corners for many a day thereafter, it is surely a struggle baffling adequate description. For while you speak of it, it is done; while a clock ticks, two guns may carry hot lead and cut in two two threads of life.

Quinnion was down and shooting, with but ten steps or less between him and the man whom he sought to kill; Bud Lee was standing, tall and straight, back to wall, his first bullet ripping into the boards of the table, sending a flying splinter to stick in Quinnion's face, close to a squinting, slitted eye; and as the two guns spoke like one, a third from the open barn door shattered the lamp swinging from the ceiling between Lee and Quinnion. Steve, the bartender, had taken a hand.

The card room was plunged in darkness so thick that Lee's frowning eyes could no longer make out Quinnion's head above the table, so black that to Quinnion's eyes the tall form of Lee against the wall was lost in shadow.

As Steve fired his shot into the lamp, Bud Lee understood just what would be Steve's next play; the bartender had given his friends brief respite from the deadly fire of the Blue Lake man, and now would turn his second shot through the flimsy wall itself on the man standing there. Lee did not hesitate now, but with one leap was across the room, avoiding the table, seeking to come to close quarters with Quinnion and have the thing over and done with. In the bitterness still gnawing at his heart, he told himself again that it would be no calamity to the world if the two men who had insulted Judith Sanford went down together.

Again Steve fired. His bullet ripped into the wall, tearing a hole through the partition where a brief instant ago Lee had stood. The light out in the barn door was extinguished. In the card room it was utterly, impenetrably dark now, only a vague square of lesser darkness telling where was the window through which Shorty had fled.

A red flare of flame from where Quinnion crouched, and Lee stood very still, refusing the temptation to fire back. For Quinnion's bullet had sped wide of the mark, striking the wall a full yard to Lee's left. Quinnion's eyes had not found him, would not find him soon if he stood quite motionless. The fight was still to be made, Quinnion's friends would be taking a hand now, Steve had already joined issue. There were six of them against him and with one shot fired from his heavy Colt there were but five left. No shot to be wasted.

A little creaking of a floor board, a vague, misty blur almost at his side, and still Lee saved his fire. Quickly he lifted the big revolver, held welded to a grip of steel, throwing it high above his head and striking downward. There was almost no sound; just the thudding blow as the thick barrel struck a heavy mat of hair, and with no outcry a man went down to lie still. At the same moment the dim square of the window showed a form slipping through; one man was seeking safety from a quarrel not his own. And as he went, there came again a soft thudding blow and Carson's dry voice outside, saying calmly:

"Shorty got away, but you don't, pardner. Give 'em a—h—l, Bud. I'm in the play again."

"Two men down," granted Lee to himself with grim satisfaction. "And old Carson back on the job. Only two to our one now."

The form in the window crumpled and under Carson's quick hands was jerked out. Suddenly it was very still in the little room. Steve did not fire a third time. Quinnion held his fire. For Lee had made no answer and they were taking heavy chances with every shot now, chances of shooting the wrong man. Each of the four watchful men in the narrow apartment breathed softly.

Once more Lee lifted his gun above his head. As he held it thus, he put out his left hand gently, inch by inch, gropingly. Extended full length, it touched nothing. Slowly he moved it in a semi-circle, the gun in his right hand always ready to come crashing down. His fingers touched the wall, then moving back assured him that no one was within reach. Lifting a foot slowly, he took one cautious step forward, toward the spot where he had last seen Quinnion. Again his arm, circling through the darkness, sought to locate for him one of the men who must be very near him now. Suddenly it brushed a man's shoulder.

There was a sharp, muttered exclamation, and again a flare of red flame as this man fired. But he had misjudged Bud Lee's position by a few inches, the bullet cut through Lee's coat, and Lee's clubbed revolver fell unerringly, smashing into the man's forehead. There was a low moan, a revolver clattered to the floor, a body fell heavily.

"A new situation," thought Lee. Three men down before a clock could tick off as many minutes and not a single man shot. It was a place for a man like Charlie Miller with his old pickhandle.

"Bud," called Carson's voice sharply, "are you all right?"

"Yes," answered Lee briefly, and as he answered moved sharply to one side so that his voice might not draw a shot from Quinnion or the other men. There came two spurts of flame, one from each of the corners of the room opposite him, the reports of the two shots reverberating loudly. But this was mere guesswork—shooting at no more definite thing than a man's voice, and Lee having moved swiftly had little fear. And he knew pretty well where those two men were now.

So did Carson, who from without fired in twice through the window. Then again it grew so silent that a clock ticking somewhere out in the barn was to be heard distinctly, so that again the men guarded their breathing.

Lee thought that he knew where Quinnion was, in the corner at his right close to the rear wall. Not square in the corner, of course, for having fired he was fox enough to shift his position a little. True, no sound had told of such a movement. But Quinnion could be trusted to make no sound at a time like this. Lee, equally silent, again set a slow foot out, moving cautiously toward the spot where his eyes sought Quinnion in the dark.

He was calculating swiftly now: Quinnion had fired twice from the screen of the table just as Steve shot out the light; he had fired again just now, it was a fair bet that at least one of the other shots had been his. That meant that he had fired four times. If Quinnion still carried his old six-shooter he had but two shots at most left to him, for there had been no time which he would risk in reloading.

Lee swept off his hat and tossed it out before him to the spot where he believed Quinnion was and dropped swiftly to his knee as he did so. There was a snarl, Quinnion's evil snarl, and a shot that sped high above his head. His hat had struck Quinnion full in the face. Then Lee again sprang forward, again struck out with his clubbed revolver. The blow missed Quinnion's head but caught him heavily on the shoulder and sent him staggering back against the wall. Lee could hear the bulk of his body crashing against the boards. And again leaping, he struck the second time at Quinnion. This time there was no snarl, but a falling weight and stillness.

There was a sound of a chair violently thrown down, the scuffle of hasty feet and in the door the faint blur of a flying figure seeking refuge in the bar. Lee flung the crippled door shut after the fugitive and then with his left hand struck a match, his revolver ready in his right.

roiding the tiny flame down toward the floor, he made out two prone bodies. One, that of the first man he had struck down, a man whom he knew by name as Lefty Devine, a brawler and boon companion of Quinnion. The other Quinnion himself. Devine lay very still, clearly completely stunned. Quinnion moved a little.

Carson's weather-beaten face peered in at the window.

"Better do the hot foot, Bud," he grunted softly, "while the trail's open. Steve will be mixing in again."

But Lee seemed in no haste now. When the match had burned out, he dropped it and slipped fresh cartridges into his gun. That done, he stooped, gathered up Quinnion's feebly struggling body in his arms and carried it to the window.

"Here," he said coolly to Carson. "Take him through."

Carson obeyed, jerking the now complaining Quinnion out hastily and unceremoniously. Lee followed as Steve threw open the barn door.

"It's a new one on me, just the same," said Carson dryly as he watched Lee stoop and gather Quinnion up in his arms. "After a little party like this one, I'm generally traveling on an' not stopping to pick flowers an' gather souveniers! You ain't got cannibal blood in you, have you, Bud?"

While Carson was cudgeling his brains for the answer and Steve was making cautious examination of the card room, Lee with his burden in his arms passed through the darkness lying at the rear of the saloon and out into the street. Carson followed to take care of a sortie should Steve and the rest not have had all they wanted for one night. He chuckled, remarking to himself that Bud Lee and Quinnion were the very picture of a young mother and her babe in arms.

Not until they again reached the Golden Spur did Lee's burden completely recover consciousness. Many a man on the street looked wonderingly after them, demanded to know "what was up," and, receiving no answer, swung in behind Carson.

In the Golden Spur the arrivals were greeted by a heavy silence. Sandy Weaver forgot to set out the drinks which had just been ordered by three men who, in their turn, forgot that they had ordered. Men at the tables playing cards put down their hands and rose or turned expectantly in their seats.

Lee put Quinnion down on the floor. The man lay there a moment blinking at the lights above him and at the faces around him. At length his eyes came to Lee.

"D—n you," he muttered, trying to rise, and slowly getting to his feet with the aid of a chair. "I'll get you—"

Then Bud Lee gave his brief explanation, cutting Quinnion's ugly snarl in two.

"This is Quinnion's farewell party," he said bluntly. "He is a liar and a crook and an undesirable citizen. I have told him all that before. He took it upon himself to say about town that I am all of those things which he is himself. I have d—n near killed him for it; I am going to give him ten minutes to get out of town. If he doesn't do it, I am going to kill him. And in that ten minutes he is going to find time to eat his words."

"I'll see you in—" began Quinnion, as something of the old bluster came back to him.

"Shut up," snapped Lee. "Carson, let me have your gun."

Carson, wondering, gave it. Lee dropped it on the floor at Quinnion's foot.

"Pick that gun up and we'll finish what we've begun," he said coolly to Quinnion. "I won't shoot until you've got it in your hand and have straightened up. Then I'll kill you. Unless first you admit that you are the contemptible liar every one knows you are, and second, get out of town and stay out. It's up to you, Quinnion."

"One, Two," Said Sandy, Watching the Clock.

Knowing Quinnion, the men moved swiftly so that they did not stand behind either him or Lee. Sandy Weaver, shifting a few feet along his bar, shook his head and sighed.

"I'll be both of them," he muttered.

Quinnion turned his head a little, his red-rimmed eyes going from face to face, his tongue moving back and forth between his lips. For an instant his eyes dropped to the gun at his feet, and a little spasmodic contraction of his body showed that he was tempted to take up the weapon. But he hesitated, and again turned to Lee.

"It's up to you," repeated Lee. "If you're not a coward after all, pick it up." Lee's hands were at his sides, his own revolver in his pocket. Quinnion was tempted. The evil lights in his eyes danced like witch-fires. Again he hesitated; but his hesitation was brief. With his whining, ugly laugh he lurched to the bar.

"Gimme a drink, Sandy," he commanded.

"Neither now nor after a while," Sandy told him briefly. "I ain't dirty in my glasses that-a-way."

"There you are," jeered Quinnion, with a sullen sort of defiance. "You swat me over the head while I ain't lookin' an' then bring me in here where they're all your friends. If I drop you I get all messed up with their bullets. No, thanks."

"For the last time," said Lee, and his low voice was ominous. "I tell you what to do. If you don't do it, I'll kill you just the same. You've got your chance. Count ten seconds, Sandy."

"One," said Sandy, watching the clock on the wall, "two, three, four, five, six, seven—"

"Curse you!" cried Quinnion then, a look of fear at last in his eyes. "I'll get you for this some day, Bud Lee. Now you've got me—"

"Keep on counting, Sandy," commanded Lee.

"Eight," said Sandy, "nine—"

"I lied!" snapped Quinnion. "An' I'm leavin' town for a while."

And lurching as he walked, he made his way out of the room, his eyes on the floor, his face a burning red.

"Carson and I are riding back to the ranch as soon as our horses rest up and get some grain," said Lee, his fingers slowly rolling a brown cigarette. "We'll mosey out now, see Quinnion on his way and drop back to make up a little game of draw for a couple of hours. Strike you about right, Billy? And you, Watson? And you, Parker?"

They listened to him, took the cue from him, and allowed what lay between him and Chris Quinnion to lie in silence. But there was not a man there but in his own fashion was saying to himself:

"It's a good beginning. But where's the end going to be?"

CHAPTER XII

Burning Memory

As June had slipped by, so did July and August. On Blue Lake ranch life flowed smoothly. Men were too busy with each day's work to sit into the nights prophesying trouble ahead. And in truth it seemed that if Bayne Trevors had ever actively opposed the success of the Sanford venture he had by now accepted the role of inactivity forced upon him by circumstance. He was with the Western Lumber Company, as director and district superintendent, seemingly giving all his dynamic force to the legitimate affairs of the company.

But there were those who placed no faith in the obvious. Bud Lee kept in touch with Rocky Bend and learned that Quinnion had not come back; that no one knew where he had gone. Carson's man, Shorty, was sought by Emmet Sawyer and his disappearance was like that of a prickled bubble; it seemed that Shorty had no actual physical existence or that, if he had, he had taken it into some other corner of the world. Quinnion's friends had also gone from Rocky Bend, like Quinnion leaving behind them no sign to show where they had gone.

Knowing Quinnion as he did, and having his own conception of the character of Bayne Trevors, Bud Lee said to himself that too great a quiet portended strife to come. If Quinnion was the man to carry in his breast the hate that drove him to the murder of Judith's father, then he was the man to remember the humiliation he had suffered at Lee's hands, to remember and to strike back when the time was ripe.

Judith had heard of the night in Rocky Bend, a lurid and wonderfully distorted account from Mrs. Simpson, who had received it in a letter from her daughter.

"So that was what Bud Lee did after he kissed me!" mused Judith.

She sent immediately for Carson and forced from him the full story. Dismissing Carson, she remained for a long while alone. Only one remark had she made to the cattle foreman, and that a little aside from the issue occupying his mind:

"Keep your weather eye open for what's in the wind," she told him briefly. "Behind Quinnion is Trevors, and the year isn't over yet."

The ranch was stocked to its utmost capacity. Carson had bought another herd of cattle; Lee had added to his string of horses. The dry season was on them, herds were moved higher up the slopes into the fresh pastures. Carson, converted now to the silos, was a man with one idea and that idea ensilage. Again the alfalfa acreage was extended, so that each head of cattle might have its daily auxiliary fodder. Carson now agreed with Judith in the matter of holding back sales for the high prices which would come at the heels of the lean months.

The man Donley, who had brought to the ranch the pigeons carrying cholera, was tried in Rocky Bend. The evidence, though circumstantial, was strong against him, and the prosecution was pushed hard. But it was little surprise to any one at the ranch when the trial resulted in a hung jury. The ablest lawyer in the county had defended Donley, and finally, late in August, secured his acquittal. The man himself did not have ten dollars in the world; the attorney taking his case was a high-priced lawyer. Obviously, to Judith Sanford at least, Bayne Trevors was standing back of every play his hirelings made.

Doc Tripp had the big cholera in hand. And every day, out with the live stock whose well-being was his responsibility, he worked as he had never worked before, watchful, eager, suspicious.

"If they'll drop cholera down on us out of the blue sky," he snapped, "I'd like to know what they won't try."

For the first few days following the dance Bud Lee had within his soul room but for one emotion: he had held Judith in his arms. He had set his lips on hers. He went hot and cold with the remembrance. Being a man, he made his man-suppositions of the emotions that rankled in her breast. He imagined her contempt of a man who by his strength had forced her lips to wed his; he pictured her scorn, her growing hatred. He told himself that he should go, rid the ranch of his presence, take his departure without a word with her. For, already, he had fitted her into his theory of the perfect woman, lifting her high above himself and above the human world. It was a continued insult for him to remain here.

But, after careful thought, he remembered what Judith had already told him; he was one of the men whom she could trust to do her work for her, one of the men she most needed, a man whom she would need sorely if Bayne Trevors were lying quiet now but to strike harder, unexpectedly, later.

Judith did not dismiss him, as at first he had been sure she would. So he stayed on, remaining away from the ranch headquarters, sleeping where he could in the cabin above the lake, spending his days with his horses, avoiding her but keeping her personality in his soul, her interests in his heart. When the winter had passed when she had made her sales and had the money in hand for the payments upon the mortgages, then he would go. Whereat, no doubt, the high gods smiled.

As time passed, there came about a subtle change in the attitude of the outfit toward Pollock Hampton, whom they had been at the beginning prone to accept as a "city guy." It began to appear that under his lightness there was often a steady purpose; that if he didn't know everything about a ranch, he was learning fast; that in his outspoken admiration of things rough and manly and primal there were certain lasting qualities. Whereas formerly his being thrown from a spirited mount was almost a daily occurrence, now he rode rather well. With tanned face and hard hands, he was, as Carson put it, "growing up."

TEACHERS PLAN TO MOULD CHILDREN TO COMMUNISM

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS.—The United Federation of School Teachers of France, in session in this city, has resolved that school children be taught revolutionary principles. In the discussion that preceded the vote different orators declared that teachers should take matters in their own hands and begin their class strife propaganda with the little ones, discharging old text books, and "bringing the children to understand that modern society is filled with the germs of injustice."

The federation comprises about 8,000 teachers who previously belonged to the federation which affiliated with the French Federation of Labor, and which separated from that body when the Communists split with the Socialist party.

The ranks of the Communist teachers will be considerably swelled if the amnesty bill passed by the Chamber is adopted by the Senate. This bill reinstates teachers who have been dismissed for subversive action, or for any other reason, and provides for their promotion to posts they would in the ordinary course have reached had they not been dismissed.

AVIATORS SOON TO RACE FOR $50,000 IN PRIZES

DAYTON, O., Sept. 10.—Aviators who flew together over the German lines in the World war, and others who waited together for that opportunity, will meet here in one of the biggest military reunions since the armistice, when the International Air Races are held at Wilbur Wright field, October 2, 3, and 4.

The Army Air Service has given assurance that flyers and officers throughout the country will be permitted to attend, and approximately 400 from almost every military post and field have already signified that intention.

Arrangements for the reunion are being made by Major A. W. Robins and John F. Curry, commandants of Wilbur Wright and McCook fields and Major George Brett of Wright field.

The International Air Races, the chief attraction here, will include 12 racing events, for which $50,000 in prizes have been offered.

SCOTCH FARMERS START GROWING BEETS FOR SUGAR

GLASGOW.—The first of a chain of factories to extract sugar from Scotch grown sugar beets has been opened a few miles north of Nottingham. The chain will extend from Kent through Nottingham and into Perthshire, the district in which sugar beet growing has been widely developed since the war. Other factories will be erected as soon as the best production can be guaranteed.

ESKIMOS VISIT NOME TO SELL THEIR PRODUCTS

NOME, Alaska.—Every year since Nome can remember the entire native village of King Island makes a pilgrimage to the city, arriving about July 4 and remaining most of the summer.

The natives, a clean, industrious and healthy lot, make the trip of approximately 100 miles in boats which they build from the hides of walrus. Seven of these boats carry the whole population, including all their possessions.

The King Islanders are clever carvers, arriving in Nome with several tons of ivory, they carve the rough tusks into carboards, gavel, forks, knives, spoons, umbrellas, handles, hampers and numerous other things. The merchants and people of Nome patronize them liberally, so that the camp usually collects thousands of dollars during the season, and these profits they put back into circulation by purchasing supplies for the next winter.

These Eskimos enter the summer athletic contests at Nome and often develop athletes of ability. At other times they provide entertainments with their orchestra.

Strategy Wins Autograph

From Rudyard Kipling BURWASH, England.—"H" is not the only letter which is frequently silent in England; "W" also is often lost, especially in proper names, as in Burwash, which is pronounced Burash.

Knowledge of how to pronounce the name of this town recently won an enterprising woman an autograph letter from Rudyard Kipling, the most celebrated resident of Burwash. Failing to get an audience with Kipling the woman wrote a parody on one of his poems and mailed it to the poet in the parody she rhymed words with Burwash which showed she knew how to pronounce the name correctly and Kipling was so surprised that he mailed her a letter of thanks.

RUSSIAN POLICE DEMAND SECRECY

Daily Doings of Moscow
Police Smoked Under
By Secrecy

(By the Associated Press)

MOSCOW.—To Russians the Cheka is the most-feared organization in Russia, the very mention of the name connoting terror and ruthlessness. Its chief purpose is to suppress counter-revolutionary activities and to punish all who attempt to injure the present Soviet regime.

In a larger sense the Cheka resembles the American Secret Service or the English Scotland Yard, except it has much greater scope, exercises plenary powers, acts as "judge, jury and executioner," maintains its own army, prisons, and is all-powerful in every department of Russian life. There is no appeal from its decisions.

With the Red Army, the Cheka constitutes the most formidable weapon the Bolsheviks possess for maintaining themselves in power. No person, no group, no community, however influential, is strong enough to resist the all-embracing tentacles of the Cheka octopus which reach out to every nook and corner of Russia. The number of counter-revolutionaries and political prisoners it put to death during the revolution and terror runs into tens of thousands.

Since the late Premier Lenin introduced the so-called "new economy policy" of the government, the Cheka has been rechristened with a view to depriving it in the minds of the Russians of its sinister aspect. It now goes by the mild name of "state political department," or "G. P. U.," these being the initials of the Russian words. In it are employed many of the agents of the old Czarist secret service, whose knowledge of all political offenders is of special value.

The G. P. U. is the most highly organized and severely disciplined of all Soviet institutions, and its members are the most devoted to the Communist cause. Any disclosure of its plans by an employee or agent would mean certain death. Its working force numbers hundreds of thousands of men and women. Every employee of every Communist institution throughout Russia is a potential agent or spy of the G. P. U.

Felix Dzierzhinsky, the mild-spoken, soft-mannered Pole who brought the organization up to its present high state of efficiency, has been elevated to the chairmanship of the Supreme Economic Council, but he still directs the broad policy of the G. P. U.

Within the building serving as the G. P. U. headquarters is a great courtyard, along the sides of which are steel-barred cells. The occupants are regarded as more dangerous of the political prisoners. They are awaiting either death or deportation to Siberia for life.

Before 1900 less than one-quarter of the medical schools in this country required even a high school education for admission.

HART

Cotton picking seems to be the order of the day in this community. Our school closed Friday, Sept. 5, on account of needing children to pick cotton. We had two months successful school, and the pupils seem to regret very much to have the school closed as there was much interest taken. All will be glad when the winter term begins. The teachers, Mr. Reuben, Miss Ida May and Miss Litta Wilson left for their home at Stratford and will enter the College at Ada Monday.

J. L. Taylor made a business trip to Pauls Valley Saturday.

Miss Tommie Southerland visited her sister, Mrs. Allie Bradford last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. J. L. Taylor entertained the young folks with a musical Thursday night, which all enjoyed.

Mrs. and Mr. W. M. Berry made a flying trip to Ada Friday.

Rev. J. W. Bryant failed to fill his regular appointment Sunday, and Rev. Walker who has conducted a two weeks meeting preached a very interesting sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schrimpf of Stillwater visited their cousin, W. M. Berry Thursday. Also Mrs. Geo. Berry and Ed Berry of Roff were with them.

J. H. Southerland and H. C. Fillmore and little son, Ben Henry, went to Roff Saturday.

Prof. Wilson spent Wednesday night at Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Cooper's.

Little son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Berry was ill all day Sunday.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely; glad to have such good attendance and hope there will be more of the older folks to come out in the future.

Miss Jessie, Pauline and Melvin Southerland spent Sunday afternoon at Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Berry's.

Rev. Walker has held a 2-weeks meeting, and some talk of holding a week longer, come out to hear him.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosca Chaires of Hart were in Roff Saturday.

We learned that Euell Bass has sold out crop and teams and will move to Houston, Texas, soon. We regret to lose him, but our loss will be some one else's gain.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Berry called on Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Taylor late Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. D. S. Summers and Mrs. Myrtle Twyman called on Mrs. J. H. Southerland Saturday evening.

Miss Jessie Southerland returned Sunday evening to Bolberg, where she is teaching school.

DECIDES ON BEST LIFE INSURANCE

"Five years ago I was refused life insurance because of my heart symptoms. Doctors said it was caused from a pressure of gas that came from my stomach, but their medicine did not help me and I was getting worse all the time. Three years ago my druggist recommended May's Wonderful Remedy. I took a course of it and believe it is the best life insurance anyone can buy. It helped my trouble at once." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Gwin & Mays and leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Misses Ruby Fisher was the Sunday guest of Blanche Tyree.

Mrs. O. M. Lynch and Mrs. W. W. Whitaker went to Roff Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Toliver have been visiting their daughter at Oil City.

James Olds was visiting his mother in Texas, but has returned home.

Misses Gladys and Loretta Kelly and Zora Jackson attended prayer meeting at Bolberg Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Lynch spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Whitaker.

Vernon Whitaker was the Saturday night guest of Troy Whitaker.

Farm Column

Soybeans

It is very evident from the reports coming into the Extension office from county agents, specialists and others that the soybean is a coming crop in Oklahoma.

While the soybean has some drawbacks, it is one of our best legumes and, so far, as a seed crop has proven profitable. It will doubtless be popular also as a forage crop.

District Agent A. F. Houston reports that he with County Agent A. T. Burge of Craig county visited several soybean demonstrations and that the soybeans were then waist high and would probably be shoulder high at maturity. The farmers estimate that they will make two and one-half to three tons of forage per acre and they are greatly pleased with the prospect. Mr. Burge says there are more than a thousand acres of these beans growing in Craig county this year.—A. and M. Bulletin.

Sweet Clover With Nurse Crop

There are many different methods used in getting a stand of sweet clover. Any one of them seems to succeed under favorable conditions. A method that succeeds under all conditions has not yet been discovered. We give the different methods reported as being successful and leave the farmer to use his best judgment as to the one he uses.

County Agent Fred E. Percy of Beckham county, reports that C. C. Miller of Elk City secured a good stand of sweet clover on eighty acres by sowing thirty-five pounds of sweet clover with one and one-half bushels of winter barley. The stand was very good and Mr. Miller said the only change that he would make in his method would be to increase the barley to two bushels. Mr. Miller prefers barley to the other small grains because of its early maturity. At this time, there are one hundred and ten head of cattle grazing on the clover. The only precaution to take in sowing clover with a nurse crop is to be sure the seed bed is firm.—A. and M. Bulletin.

The Egg Laying Contest

(R. B. Thompson, Professor of Poultry Husbandry)

The five highest pen productions to date are, first pen, No. 1, owned by T. A. Layton of Kingfisher; second pen, No. 15, from the St. John's Poultry Farm, Okonango, Mo.; third pen, No. 17, from the Fortune Poultry Farm of Boerne, Texas; fourth pen, No. 11, owned by Mrs. G. A. Lovett of Huxo, Oklahoma, and pen No. 34, owned by A. W. Martin, Muskogee and fifth pen, No. 18, owned by Roy M. Lynch, Emerson, New Jersey.

There are ten hens in each pen and at the close of July (274 days) these five pens had produced eggs as follows: First, 1970; second, 1962; third, 1960; fourth, 1839; fifth, 1804.

The five highest individual producers are all White Leghorns and in 274 days they have laid 230, 225, 223, 222 and 221 eggs, respectively. Mr. Layton of Kingfisher

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 16 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor B. P. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill. is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.—Adv.

Why do the eyelids wink?

—because winking is Nature's instinctive protection of the eye. Each wink spreads a tear over the eyeball and keeps the eye washed clear. A welcome aid to Nature is Puritest Mineral Oil Russian Type which keeps the intestines clear and prevents constipation. Puritest Mineral Oil is a pure, heavy lubricant. Every item the best that skill and care can produce.

GWIN &amp; MAYS

owns the highest producer, the Fortune Poultry Farm second, the St. John's Poultry farm third, Mr. Layton of Kingfisher fourth and Roy M. Lynch of Emerson, New Jersey, fifth.

Summer production is holding up very well as is indicated by the average production of the entire contest for this month. The average production is 57.50 per cent or 17.68 eggs per bird. Twenty-three hens have produced 200 or more (73 percent production) with three months of the contest before them. The five high hens have all produced over 200 eggs. The three hens that had last month laid over 200 eggs are continuing in good production as they are again this month all included in the five high hens to date.

It is interesting to note that 28 individuals from a number of different pens have a production equal to or better than the production of the high pen to date. This is a production of 71.89 percent or 179 eggs. This is further proof that the high producers are well distributed throughout the contest.

The White Langshan hen (No. 281) that laid 82 eggs consecutively is continuing in good production. She laid 29 eggs this month and tied for first place of July. She has produced 137 eggs in 141 days.

Attention is again called to entries for the Second Oklahoma Egg-Laying Contest. Entries have come in more rapidly this month than before. The necessity of getting your entry in early cannot be stressed too much. The heavy weight division has also been filling up more rapidly this month.

Oklahoma poultrymen are especially urged to get their entries in now before the contest pens are all filled.

POSTMASTERS TO SEEK BETTER MAIL FACILITIES

(By the Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 12.—Establishment of parcel post and third class mail terminals in every state, to facilitate quicker handling of these classes of mails, will be among the recommendations of the U. S. Postoffice Department proposed by the National Association of Postmasters of the United States which meets here Sept. 23 to 25.

Only a few larger cities have such terminals at present, and the concentration of this type of mails in these cities is resulting in congestion which the postmasters believe can be relieved by establishing similar terminals in each state.

Other recommendations expected to be made is that the government bond its employees, adoption of legislation abolishing the compensatory time feature for employees who work on Sunday or holiday, new regulations which will permit return of mail posted with insufficient stamps to senders, and more stringent rules governing containers in which eggs may be shipped to reduce breakage in the mails. The speakers before the meeting include Postmaster General Harry S. New.

PATRIOTIC CALL GETS TOP HATS IN IRELAND

DUBLIN.—The Tailteann games and their accompanying social events have been remarkable for the revival in Ireland of the tall hat. Twenty years ago a black morning coat, striped trousers and a tall hat were the almost essential uniform of professional men, and no doctor or lawyer omitted to wear them. An easier style of dress gradually crept in, and for more than ten years tweeds and soft hats replaced the old dignities, and the tall hat was rarely seen except at funerals.

The more formal clothes have now returned. At social functions all the Free State officials and ministers wear them. As the Independent puts it, this is "expressing homage to this very young state in terms of clothes. In a vulgar, modern, democratic age clothes matter tremendously, and there is no getting away from it. Outsiders judge us by appearance, not by what we are, and patriotism calls for the best show possible at all such public or semi-public events."

Public Cabs Replace Private Vehicles at German Weddings

BERLIN.—Waiting at the church has become a custom among the horse cab drivers here whenever there is a wedding. Formerly, liveried carriages brought the bride and groom to the church, and their relatives and friends, too, came in their private vehicles, carriages or automobiles.

But in the new order of things and the high prices generally, it is not unusual for the bride and groom themselves to take a one-horse cab or a taxi from the bride's home to the church, and to call another conveyance after the ceremony is over. Cab drivers have spotted all the favorite churches, and by instinct appear to know the days and the hours when there is to be a wedding.

Famous Western Paintings Given to Japanese Ruler

TOKIO.—Reproductions of two famous paintings, familiar in millions of homes in the Occident, were presented to the prince regent of Japan recently by the Federation of Christian Missions in Japan, most of whose members are Americans.

The pictures are Watts' "Sir Galahad" and Soord's "The Lost Sheep." Below the "Sir Galahad" is a plate bearing Tennyson's lines, "My strength is as the strength of ten because my heart is pure." The inscription at the bottom of the other picture is, "The Good Shepherd Giveth His Life for His Sheep."

Collapsible Canoe Carried on Auto Has Seats for Two Persons

For the automobile tourist who likes to fish and paddle, a collapsible canoe has been imported from Germany which can be packed in a bundle, six inches in diameter and forty-eight inches long, and weighs only thirty-five pounds. When assembled, it is fifteen feet long, with waterproof spray shields at each end, and seats two people in comfort.

"Loudest Noise" Deafens Persons Ten Miles from Blast

What is believed to be the loudest noise ever made by man is reported to have deafened persons within a ten-mile radius in France. Ten tons of explosive were set off in order to observe the speed of sound and to discover the cause of the "zones of silence," first noticed during heavy barrages in the war, when cannon could be heard at long distances, yet the explosions were inaudible nearer to the guns. Observers were stationed in many of the principal cities, some 600 miles away.

WILLS TOO MUCH FOR PAMPAS BULL

Brown Panther Keeps Argentine Buller at His Mercy For Twelve Rounds

RINGSIDE, Jersey City, Sept. 11.—Once again the shadow of "The Brown Panther" has fallen across the pathway of Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion. Harry Wills, giant negro heavyweight, sprang directly in front of Jack the Killer Thursday night when he emerged victorious from a furious combat with Luis Angel Firpo which left the erstwhile "wild bull" wallowing helplessly in the pool of oblivion.

Dominating the fight from start to finish, with an exhibition of ring craft that completely spiked Firpo's heaviest gun, his famous right, Wills beat the giant Argentine into decisive defeat with a bruising relentless attack to the head and body.

Firpo Goes Down

Firpo, knocked down for a count of four in the second round staggered in several others by lightning-like thrusts to his jaw and subjected to a succession of savage, weakening drives to the body. Shorn of his chief and only potent weapon, the Argentine fought a losing battle all the way. His gameness carried through the terrific punishment his negro rival administered, but he had not the boxing skill, speed or versatility of attack to cope with the crafty, resourceful and relentless campaign of his opponent.

No decision. No official decision was rendered, as none is permitted under New Jersey ring laws, but there was no question of the outcome. Firpo, in the opinion of some critics, barely held his own in one round, the third while the big majority of newspaper critics gave every round to the big negro.

The crowd which filled the big bowl to capacity, had come in expectation of a knockout, with opinion about evenly divided as to which of the two ring giants would score it. But instead they saw Wills, the ring master and wily veteran, batter and wrestle his way to a convincing but unexciting victory.

Panther at Best. The brown panther was at his best employing all his strategy to completely baffle his opponent, but Firpo was not the Wild Bull he had been in his other battles. Shorn of the mighty smash that sent Jack Dempsey flying out of the ring a year ago, the South American's attack was impotent and his defense was too crude to avoid the continual barrage of Wills' blows.

Wills employed all the tricks of his trade to stand off Firpo's charges. The big negro continually held Firpo with his long left and wrestled the Argentine about while he administered terrific punishment with short right jolts to the head and body. At close range, Firpo was bewildered, helpless and at times handled like a child by his dusky rival.

South Sea Romance Fades As Natives Dance to Jazz

(By the Associated Press)

PAPETTE, Tahiti.—Moving pictures and radio, jazz music, motor cars and bobbed hair have crowded out the old native customs of Tahiti and some of the romance of the South Seas would appear to be on the wane.

Vivid Hues Brighten Paper Money to Check Counterfeiting

So that it will be harder to counterfeit United States paper currency and spurious notes may be more readily detected, legal tender is being brought out in distinctive colors. The denominational figure, serial number and treasury seal will be printed blue on silver certificates, red on United States notes, green on federal reserve notes, brown on national bank notes and yellow on gold certificates.

Handy Block Makes Can Opening Easy

Many women find it hard to hold cans firmly when opening them, and will therefore appreciate the simple device shown in the drawing.

A block of 1-in wood is cut with a V-shaped opening, as shown, and the faces of the vee covered with strips of fine emery cloth, glued to the wood; the block is then screwed to the work top of the kitchen cabinet. The can to be opened is pushed into the V-notch, where a very light pressure holds it securely. With the can held firmly in this manner, opening it is a very simple operation, requiring no heavy exertion. The angle of the notch and the size of the block should be such that it will hold any size of ordinary can.

Time was when July 14, the anniversary of the fall of the Bastille, was the greatest native festival of these islands. There were singing and dancing contests among the native clans, prepared for months in advance, and the competition for real excellence was keen. This year only a few small and mediocre companies entered the contests, and interest was distinctly lacking. The principal centers of attraction were the dancing pavilions. Along the waterfront where jazz bands led the revellers in fox trots to a continuous flow of warm champagne.

NOTED GOLFERS TO PLAY IN FRENCH LICK TOURNAMENT

(By the Associated Press)

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind., Sept. 12.—The course over which the Professional Golfers Association championship will be played here Sept. 15 to 20, will demand top form for four good scores, according to Arthur Lookwood, club professional. The course is long and difficult, with a wealth of hills and hollows and more than 160 wide and deep traps. The elevated putting greens prove most deceiving in distance. Donald Ross, famous builder of golf courses, laid out the French Lick links and declares it to be his masterpiece. It is similar to Oakland Hills, where Cyril Walker won the American open.

Walker, Walter Hagen, just back from England with the British championship; Gene Sarazen, Jack Hutchinson, MacDonald Smith, Joe Kirkwood, Freddie McLeod and a host of other stars are expected to participate in the French Lick event for a purse of $5,000.

Sixty-four starters will tee off Monday, September 15, in pursuit of the title now held by Gene Sarazen. The men making the low 22 scores will be paired for the match play eliminations which start Tuesday. The 32 men eliminated on Monday will each receive $50; those on Tuesday $75, those on Wednesday $100, those on Thursday $125 and those on Friday, the day of the Semi-finals, $125.

Camp Meals Are Cooked Easily on Revolving Bracket Grid

Much of the unpleasantness of cooking over the camp fire may be eliminated by the use of a revolving bracket grid recently invented. It consists of a short, pointed base which is driven into the ground and about which the fire is built, an extension tube, a revolving top piece and four interchangeable grids. Several things may be cooked at once, and a light touch is sufficient to swing the arrangement around for stirring the contents of a pot or for placing anything over the hottest part of the fire without stepping into the smoke. The entire outfit is quickly assembled or taken apart, occupies but little space and is durable. The surfaces of the cooking grids are angular-shaped, making them easy to clean and well suited to broiling steak or toasting bread.

Some of the larger iron bedsteads often sag down on the rollers so that it is difficult to move them about. This can be cured by driving a hardwood plug into the bottom of each post and boring a 3/8-in. hole in it, then putting in a regular roller intended for wooden beds.

Australia Studies Closely American Immigration Control

(By the Associated Press)

MELBOURNE.—Members of all parties in the commonwealth parliament are watching with keen interest the way America is meeting its immigration problem. Although it is recognized that the question of Asiatic immigration is not exactly similar to the issue of European emigration to the United States, all the effects of the Johnson bill, including the Japanese exclusion measure, are looked on as test cases which one day may be applicable to Australia.

Supporters of the "white Australia" policy protested warmly recently against the increasing numbers of Italians, Czechoslovakians, Maltese and other European nationalities who have been pouring into the commonwealth to fill the labor demand in the sugar and cotton fields. This was the policy on which Sir Henry Barwell, ex-premier of South Australia, practically lost the election for the National party in that state.

Advocates of a white Australia are more active than ever.
